

Weathered riven Country Collection

Specifically designed to match the appeal of natural quarried stone, these paving slabs are often the appropriate choice for landscapers and designers, available in a range of different sizes and subtle colour blends, to create a more natural look we recommend a colour mix with a random pattern complimented by one of our own border tiles.

RANDOM PATTERS (3 sizes)

Suitable for Old Valentia, Farmhouse Range and Weathered Riven Country Collection

1. Use the 300mm scale above to draw an outline of the area in which you wish to lay your patio.
 2. Place the traced outline on the pattern and draw over the shapes. It is advisable to start in a corner.
 3. Individual paving stones can be used to finish off thereby minimizing cutting.
 4. Count up the number of the various sizes drawn to give the tool required.
- Make a sensible allowance for cutting.

The high definition of the riven pattern in our moulds is what makes this product match the authenticity of newly quarried stone. As a result of de-moulding process and transportation of this product, edges may become frayed. However this does not affect the products performance and is usually rectified during the grouting process.

Also please note, due to the specific nature of raw materials, general weathering, production and storage processes, concrete and especially coloured concrete Will Vary in Shades

Apparent distortions will attract attention when individually viewed but once installed, combined and intermixed within the whole installation. This resolves the issues of appearance and often times can add to the overall effect.

With over 35 years of experience, our installation contractors regularly encounter issues of this nature. Through sensible usage of product minimizes the unnecessary replacement, thereby avoiding wastage that impacts on our carbon footprint. It is advisable to inspect goods prior to delivery vehicle leaving site so as to return any product that needs replacement or exchange .It is the customers responsibility to be present or its agents to receive delivery. Colour For Concrete accepts no responsibility for goods once delivered and off-loaded and departed from delivery site.
